Hail and Farewell

Big sensation in after-primary Florida was the summary discharge of Arthur Hale, state road chairman, by Fred P. Cone, governor and badly defeated candidate for the United States senate. Headline readers and political cynics saw in this move only the pique of an angry old man who used a 31-year-old signed unratified resignation to vent his spite on an ungrateful assistant.

The real facts behind the incident might as well be known, particularly as they show Fred Preston Cone as a ruggedly honest and non-political individual. Fred Cone, the first primary Con of the Gulf Coast highway during the remainder of 7 months of his administration as governor. The public took this as a direct bid for votes for the United States senate—which it was frankly admitted to be. Cone ran fourth in a 6-man race. Skeptics advised Pinellians to put their highway dreams in moth balls for the balance of the year. But Pinellias gave Cone one of his heaviest votes percentage-wise in the entire state. This in spite of the fact that Cone started his administration hating Pinellias county, particularly St. Petersburg, which had been made a major appointment. On the Hillsborough hand he showed literally dozens of appointments with Arthur Hale as road chairman drawing the principal plum. In the primary Hillsborough gave Cone only a trifling more than Pinellias in spite of more than double the registration. With stark plainness the Hale, Whitehair, Chance, Tillman, Dupree crowd had sold the old man short. Their desperate single-shot gambit Winner Take-All on Whitehair.

It was an ideal situation—punish Hillsborough, keep his word with Pinellias all at once shot. The Old Man pulled the trigger, publicly issued orders for his new road department to immediately build 12 miles of the 26-mile gap of the Gulf Coast highway. Out the window went the Hale middle route. The bridge as there ensued a wild scramble from Monroe to North Main street in Jax to adjust balance, avoid road and political capsize from the sudden hurricane.

Humor mill at Tallahassee has the heads of Bill Taylor, hotel commissioner, the state patrol commander, a half dozen others, practically rolling in the streets. Wild rumors even include a special session of the legislature—which is nuts as this comes from one source.

Meanwhile, Fred Preston Cone will be governor for 7 months and those not prepared to like it better duck—Fuller's Florida Letter.

One Year Ago

Often when we are desperately worried, someone will musically say, "Let's see, what was it that looked like the end of the world to you last year about this time?" Well, ten years ago today, you ever noticed how often you reached them, crossed bridges you never did actually reach? Have you ever noticed that the worries you thought were justified in other years turn out to be needless? There really isn't any sense in trying to do more than to live each day as wisely and as happily as you can, taking thought for the morrow sanely, but without fear.

We've been thinking of advice like that today when we recall that exactly one year ago King George and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain crossed the international boundary to Niagara Falls where they were greeted by Secretary of State Hull before they entrained again for Washington for their first visit in this country.

Just one year ago today. And just one year ago yesterday in Berlin, 15,000 Germans paraded before Chancellor Hitler and assembled German and Spanish generals—15,000 men who had been going through the training that made them into the efficient air force that in the last two months made possible the devastating invasions by Hitler's forces.

Just one year ago today. What will we be using for contrast on June 7, 1941? One year ago, Poland, Denmark, Norway, Finland, Belgium, Holland were lands of peaceful, industrious people.

And just one year hence, what will we be writing?—Melbourne Times.

Too Late TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay

The effort of the American Legion to interest our youth in the importance and duties of good citizenship is laudable and next week in the neighborhood of two hundred boys will assemble in Tallahassee to learn first hand the functions of state government.

From among their number they will elect a Governor and a Cabinet. Others will serve as Senators and Representatives, and the Governor will appoint Department Heads. For one week these boys will play "State" much after the manner of little girls playing "house."

It is a splendid idea and should be enlarged upon for the future welfare of our state depends upon our ability to interest youth in government affairs.

While these eager young men may gain some conception of how government is supposed to run, and during their week's stay in Tallahassee may learn a few of the fundamentals, it is very doubtful if they get far enough behind the scenes in so limited a time as to actually acquaint themselves with what really does go on.

It will be interesting to note what our boy Governor will do with the patronage at his disposal. Be enlightened in the selection of personnel to only the boys in the group, he won't be able to do much for his voters. It should be explained to him, however, that in appointing department heads he should give first consideration to those who contributed to his campaign.

The boys who make up the Legislature will have some pretty sticky problems to face if they try to tackle the job that presents itself today. One striking weakness of this educational effort is the fact that no apparent provision has been made for "lobbyists." Imagine a Legislature without a host of trained and experienced lobbyists to tell 'em what to do.

And it will be interesting to note what this boy Legislature will do about attacks. No doubt all of them have girl friends at home, and if their education is to be complete they should be permitted to take care of 'em with $6 a day jobs, even if the party will only last a week.

It is assumed that the young man who wins the title of Governor will have promised to see that "old folks" are adequately provided for; he will be obligated to build several four-lane highways; operate our schools on full nine months basis; exercise strict economy and reduce taxes. He'll have just about as much chance of doing these things in a "Week" as the sun-eating Governor has of doing them in four years.

There is between writing his message to the Legislature, dedicating public buildings and issuing proclamations as Governor, he will be called upon to attend meetings of the Commission of State Institutions, the State Board of Education, the State Pardon Board, the School Book Commission, the Sinking Fund Commission, the Board of Pensions, the Delinquent Commission, the Board of Administration, Trustees of the Internal Improvement Fund, the Army Board, the Vocational Education Board, the State Agricultural

In addition to all that he will naturally be expected to have time to sit and visit with those friends and supporters whom he has invited to "come and see me in Tallahassee." On top of that he'll have several secretaries who will do their best to make as much of the load off him as possible, but no matter how able and efficient they may be, there are always "answers" that the Governor alone can give and no matter how weak and weary he may be there are times when "Mr. Big" insists upon seeing him, himself.

I realize that if the dose of Governorship dished onto the man as strong as I've pictured it, the poor kid will either be "nuts" or develop an executive capacity that is almost super human. In any event, it should cure him for all times of any desire to actually run a Governor.

Anyhow, the idea of training 'em in advance is a mighty good one, for if more guys realized

FULLER'S FULMINATIONS

by Walter Warren

A Paradox of Peace

The horrible paradox that is now making a shambles of Europe brings back memories of the World War. Many of the best of the world stand out in bold relief, but none with such intense prominence as the day followed, November 11. Throughout all the times of time, no such joy has ever lifted the hearts of mankind as on that fateful day of November 11, 1918. The celebrations of that historic day were attended by hundreds of thousands that had probably never before taken place in the long history of the human race.

The annals of humanity afford no such peculiar paradox of peace as that which occurred over the Roundtable, November 11th, 1918. It has been twenty-two years since this bizarre incident unfolded, it still before my startled eyes and my amazed ears, but it made such an indelible impression on me that I remember it as though it had just taken place. If you don't mind, I will tell you about it.

Early on the morning of November 11th, 1918, my brother, Joe, and I crossed the creek in front of our house and went over to a neighbor's field to plow in the last acres of oats for him. We were to be paid a dollar a day and dinner for our labor. I assisted Joe by sitting on a rail fence in the shade of a tree and telling him now and then he was getting along with his plowing each time he came to the end of the row. Also, when he got hot and thirsty, I fetched him a glass of well-water. We were proceeding in this fashion when, about eleven o'clock we heard a loud shooting and shouting across the creek in town. At first we thought it was just another of the lynchings that occurred so frequently in that section back in those days. But when the shooting continued for some time, we realized that it was too long and drawn out to be a lynching.

At that point the wife of the man we were working for rushed out into the field and shouted, "The war is ended!" I jumped off the fence, threw my gun and water bucket into the air. Joe left the mule and plow standing in the middle of the field. We both "lit a rag" for loaves where all the noise was going on. We didn't take time to go around by the footlock to get across the creek to town. We waded right through the creek where the water was about hip high and reached the town on the run.

When we got there the shooting had ceased and all the townsmen were assembled on a vacant lot in front of the bank building to participate in important ceremonies to welcome the return of peace. A two-horse wagon was pulled to a corner of the lot to serve as a rostrum for the dignitaries. Hymns were hurriedly brought from the two churches and distributed among the crowd. The owner of the structure gave a box of lemonade and a block of ice, and a barrel of lemonade was quickly made.

Everything was going along just lovely until they reached a point where it was necessary to decide who would be selected to make the peace speech. Two of the town's leading citizens, a couple of lawyers, rushed forward and offered themselves.

The lawyers had been gotten up so hurriedly that no one had been given authority to say what should be done. So there was no person to say which of the two opponents should be allowed to cooperate on peace. Matters reached an impasse. Neither of the patriots would yield to the other. In an atmosphere surcharged with the sweet sentiments of peace these two worthy warriors began to snarl and snap at each other. Their anger mounted as they argued. One of them had a mouth full of gold and silver-crowned teeth. When his anger rose to a white heat he bared this array of teeth to his opponent and produced a most ferocious aspect.

Finally, when they were just about to set upon each other with fists and feet, a peace-loving citizen intervened and suggested that both of them make a speech. This was very agreeable to each of them, so they quit quarreling, shook hands, mounted the wagon, and began bellowing at the peace-crazed crowd.

It is my devout hope that the people of America will continue to celebrate that peace brought with the blood of our boys in 1918 and that they shall never again have occasion to welcome the RETURN of peace.

THESE THINGS HAPPENED IN THE LAKE REGION 15 YEARS AGO AND WERE RECORDED BY THE EVERGLADES NEWS

A set of section houses is being built at "Sand Out" three and a half miles north of Canal Point, for the Florida East Coast railroad by G. C. Cranford, contractor, who started the work last week.

Installation of a bank at Canal Point is certain, an arcade building will be erected this fall, negotiations are under way for the construction of a large, modern hotel and many of the lots in the Pioneer Investment Company subdivision have been sold, but Bonham & Mygaw, the sales agents for the subdivision are more interested now in getting the construction of streets and sidewalks under way than they are in selling more of the lots, they said when they visited Canal Point, Tuesday.

Frank Lee, the South Bay real estate man, reports that the exception of possibly a half dozen lots, the entire townsite has been disposed of.

A. Kallenbruner has made several sale of lots in his subdivision. B. Elliott was agent in some of the late transactions.

A. L. Pope went to West Palm Beach, Friday and brought out a new Ford coupe.

E. G. Kilpatrick, Jr. was elected mayor of Pahokee at the town's annual election Friday, George C.

McLarty and Tom Shepard were elected councilmen. About 50 votes were cast. Messrs. Kilpatrick, McLarty, and Shepard getting about 43 each and the rest being scattered.

C. L. Winder and Dr. D. S. Spooner have formed a partnership to carry on a real estate business under the name of the Upper Glades Realty Company. A store room in the corner of the drug store building will be fitted up as an office.

John Newhouse, for a while clerk at Baker's store, Okaloosa, walked over from Belle Glade to spend a few days in town on Saturday last.

J. E. Heardsley, a pioneer settler on the southwest shore of Lake Okechobee, has succumbed to the lure and gone into the real estate business.

The worst thing about the newspaper press not acting properly Thursday was that it prevented The Everglades News force from attending the community picnic that was held at St. Louis canal. Ladies had extended appreciated invitations and our distress is great that we did not keep the appointments. We are under obligations to Mrs. Adams, however, for a fine lunch that was sent to the office.

Governor Martin has approved an act of the legislature that relates to incorporation of the town of Canal Point but no copy of the law has been received. Hence, nothing has been done under the law. It is understood that the act has a referendum provision that is, it cannot become operative until it has been voted on by the residents of the territory laid out as boundaries of the town. The Everglades News has written to the secretary of state for a copy of the law but the copy may not be received for some time because of the accumulation of work in the office of the secretary of state. We wish we could say that sentiment seems to favor incorporation but we cannot find facts to support it. The prospect just now is that incorporation will be voted down.

The Madison Presbyterian Church celebrated its first hundred years of existence and the fiftieth anniversary in the ministry of its pastor, Rev. R. H. Latham, last Sunday at Madison.

Laraine Day in "My Son, My Son!" Pahokee—Sunday & Monday Belle Glade—Tuesday

"MY SON, MY SON"

"My Son, My Son!" has a brilliant array of stars in Madeline Carroll, Brian Abernethy and Louis Hayward, a trio which enhances the picture by down-to-earth, unforgettable acting. Others who turn in excellent performances include Henry Holt, one of the best contemporary character actors, Josephine Hutchinson, Laraine Day, Sophie Stewart and Bruce Lester. With his usual skill for maintaining swift tempo and clear characterization, Charles Vidor has directed "My Son, My Son!" with a remarkable sureness of touch and with unsurpassed clarity of insight.

The story of "My Son, My Son!" is rich in emotional implications and everyday drama. It concerns a father and a son, and the high hopes that fail to materialize. William Koebe's dreams for his son fade into thin air when he realizes that Oliver is a vain and selfish young man, over sophisticated, insincere and cynical. Oliver's realization almost too late that he has brought misery to the people who have surrounded him with love and understanding.

Louis Borell in "Over The Moon!" Pahokee—Wednesday & Thursday Belle Glade—Friday

GREAT STORY "OVER THE MOON" IN TECHNICOLOR

Briefly, the story concerns the adventures and romances of a Yorkshire girl who inherits several million dollars upon the death of her grandfather and proceeds to see how the idle rich live. Her plan is frowned upon by the man to whom she is engaged and he bows out while she goes on to a life of utter frivolity and gaiety in Paris and Monte Carlo. When she encounters a strange young man who is even richer than she is, she realizes the utter futility of her glittering life and she decides to go after the man she really loves. How she wins him back provides the picture with a smash climax.

The story moves with tempo and suspense with its gay and witty action centered in London, Paris, Monte Carlo and the Riviera Alps.

Luscious Linda might be the descriptive appellation for this study of the lovely new recruit to films. Linda Hayes, who is now appearing as leading lady to Joe Penner in "Over The Moon," is a native wife.

DRAMA OF GIRLS DARING

Gun running in the South Seas, with U. S. Marines in charge of an Emergency Air Base, a pretty night-time-wild aviation wrecked on a jungle island, and a clever rogue who's a fool for luck but who risks it once too often, provide the plot for "Isle of Destiny."

Photographed entirely with the dazzling Cosmopolitan process, "Isle of Destiny" features William Garret and Wallace Ford as devil-may-care leathernecks, enlisted in the Marines in search of excitement but not finding any in the South Pacific until June Lang, famous girl filer, lands her Lady Bird plane at the base and proceeds to get entangled in the desperate plot of the gun runners.

Others featured players in the cast are Gilbert Roland as the gun runner and Katherine DeMille as his native wife.

TECHNICOLOR SETS

Among the many beautiful sets erected for "Over The Moon," "Alex," and "Isle of Destiny," there is one which was specially designed for color effect. It represents a Parisian flat and the carpets, curtains and fittings are entirely white, the only color on the set being provided by the bright gowns worn by Merle Oberon. Eugene Mesrobian was the designer of this setting.

PENNER ACTS FIRST, EXPLAINS LATER

Joe Penner arrived at a Malibu Lake location during the filming of his current picture, "Millionaire Playboy," dressed in a bathrobe. Seated next to him in the comedian's readster was a stranger similarly garbed.

Director Les Goodwins called for the first shot of the day's schedule, which was for Joe to do a comic dive into fourteen feet of water off the end of the dock. The cameras turned, Joe made his dive, and as Goodwins called "Cut," the stranger calmly peeled off his robe, dove in and helped Joe back to the dock.

Florida Exhibit Is—

Florida personnel to the newspaper of the United States and Canada. That these pictures are being printed is evidenced by the hundreds of clippings from all over the United States. One picture of "Miss Florida" has brought in 117 clippings from as many newspapers. These far and there will be more when all the returns are in.

In a number of instances other exhibitors have been permitted to photograph in connection with the exhibit at their respective exhibits and the descriptive text published with them calls attention to the fact that the girls pictured are from the Florida State Exhibit.

In other cases they ask permission to have their "beauties" photographed under a plain tree in the Florida tropical garden or standing by an orange or grapefruit tree pretending to be picking fruit in order to get the tropical effect.

This flood of newspaper publicity has a tendency to keep the exhibit in the public eye and make the reader more familiar with the regions. And, this newspaper publicity is augmented by that received over radio, including television, which is being broadcast from the Florida exhibit into the town of St. Petersburg, on the air of the Orange Blossom Quartet, Local 1, Coast-to-Coast, Anita Randall, Robert Doster, all Floridians are in constant demand by radio program makers.

So eager to see the greater New York public over the 22 radio stations scattered over the Greater New York area.

The exhibit is getting a world of the best kind of publicity and it is being reflected in the wonderful attendance we are having in spite of the rainy weather, which we have had to contend with.

General Manager Brown.

Kissimmee Plans Big Program July 4

Kissimmee, June 20.—This city is planning a full day of thrilling excitement for the Fourth of July, according to plans announced by executives of the Florida Capital Roundup company. The program, which begins at 10 a. m. and lasts until 8 p. m., includes public horse racing and cowboy rodeo, public barbecue, and a "Cattleman's Field Day" which will feature horse racing and cowboy rodeo.

The barbecue will be served inside the gates of race, and ample food for five thousand people is being provided by merchants and cattlemen of the Cow Capital.

The 21st Civil Aeronautics Authority announced that Florida's college students getting flying instructions ranked close to the top when compared with other states.

Person given for this is Florida's unsurpassed climate which offers the best flying conditions in the world.

FLYING SCHOOL

Deland, Fla., June 20.—Flying and ground school facilities were taxed to the limit at Stinson University last Saturday when more than eighty youths of the central Florida district stampeded the campus hoping to be among the lucky members of the Stinson Flying Program. Physical rooms and flying schedules were rushed to completion all last week in preparation for the official opening of the school.

By R. L. Allen, physics professor and Larry Schumpe, manager of the Deland Municipal Airport, led with one month to get their ground and flight school diplomas off to a training school.

President W. S. Allen reports that he has applied to the Federal headquarters for an extension of the original quota of thirty allotted to the Deland institution, the expansion necessitated through the remarkable rush of young men to join the flight training course.

Head Botanical Gardens has a rare Oriental orchid which is now blooming in this Orlando show place. Flowers on this plant measure more than eight inches across, petals are a delicate rose in color.

The two Florida high school seniors who write the best essay on "American Democracy" will be given free trips to the nation's historical points of interest by the Florida Congress on Democracy, it was announced recently.

There is not much glory attached to war when gas masks enter the picture.

It was noted by officials that only a few of the applicants failed to meet the physical requirements.

Five light-powered planes were already at the Deland field last week awaiting the grubbing and constant service they will render during the forthcoming weeks of the summer course.

W. R. Peters, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, will be flight instructor assisting Manager Schumpe, the latter announced last week.
